The Money Mentor: A Tale of Finding Financial Freedom By Tad Crawford

You don't have to be a twenty-three year old dancer with no savings to end up with the excruciating debts young Iris is confronted with in this latest work by financial and legal advisor Tad Crawford. Every year, thousands of Americans of all ages and backgrounds overtax their bank accounts and credit cards and are left with the tricky task of pulling themselves out of their financial chaos. Rarely can they receive such high-quality financial and moral support as the The Money Mentor provides—and certainly not in the guise of an entertaining, up-beat novel!

As the author tells the story of the recovering debtor Iris, he walks his readers through all the stages of money management, from the painful assessment of assets and debts to increasing one's income and starting to save. Choosing a sympathetic "girl-from-next-door" as protagonist, The Money Mentor offers people in financial trouble what they lack most of all: the ability to look at themselves from a healthy distance and realize that there is a way out of their trouble.

Editorial Review

From Publishers Weekly

What are the options for a 23-year-old injured and out-of-work dancer who is over her head in credit card debt? In The Money Mentor: A Tale of Finding Financial Freedom, Tad Crawford (The Secret Life of Money), who has appeared on TV shows like The O'Reilly Report, explores the possibilities through his fictional protagonist, Iris. Her debt problems are common among young people seduced by credit card companies' unrelenting buy-now-pay-later temptations, he explains, in this unusual yet practical look at financial management.
