

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities

By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood

Download now

Read Online

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood

Restorative practice is a proven approach to discipline in schools that favours relationships over retribution, and has been shown to improve behaviour and enhance teaching and learning outcomes. However, in order for it to work, restorative practice needs a relational school culture.

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools explains what has to happen in a school in order for it to become truly restorative. Section 1 explains the potential of restorative practice in schools, describing the positive outcomes for students and teachers. It also outlines the measures that need to be in place in order to embed restorative practice. Section 2 examines the process of understanding and managing change, providing realistic and pragmatic guidance on the practical and emotional barriers that may be encountered. Finally, Section 3 provides in eight practical steps, strategic guidance for achieving a restorative culture that sticks.

Featuring useful pro formas and templates, this book will be an indispensable guide for educators, administrators and school leaders in mainstream and specialist settings.

 Download Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Pr ...pdf

 Read Online Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A ...pdf

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities

By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood

Restorative practice is a proven approach to discipline in schools that favours relationships over retribution, and has been shown to improve behaviour and enhance teaching and learning outcomes. However, in order for it to work, restorative practice needs a relational school culture.

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools explains what has to happen in a school in order for it to become truly restorative. Section 1 explains the potential of restorative practice in schools, describing the positive outcomes for students and teachers. It also outlines the measures that need to be in place in order to embed restorative practice. Section 2 examines the process of understanding and managing change, providing realistic and pragmatic guidance on the practical and emotional barriers that may be encountered. Finally, Section 3 provides in eight practical steps, strategic guidance for achieving a restorative culture that sticks.

Featuring useful pro formas and templates, this book will be an indispensable guide for educators, administrators and school leaders in mainstream and specialist settings.

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood Bibliography

- Sales Rank: #180694 in Books
- Brand: imusti
- Published on: 2013-08-28
- Released on: 2013-10-08
- Original language: English
- Number of items: 1
- Dimensions: 9.02" h x .53" w x 5.98" l, .70 pounds
- Binding: Paperback
- 232 pages

 Download Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Pr ...pdf

 Read Online Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A ...pdf

Download and Read Free Online Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood

Editorial Review

Review

This book is an inspiration. It is the natural successor to the first generation of books that set the scene by explaining what restorative practice looks like in a school setting. The book addresses the challenge many educators face after the initial excitement of their first restorative skills training course -- how to spread the insights and the practice across their school community? Drawing on their wealth of experience, Marg Thorsborne and Peta Blood explain what the pitfalls are likely to be, and how to overcome them. They bring insights from the field of change management which are invaluable, and they offer case studies from schools all over the world to give weight to their message. I have no doubt that this book will become the core text for all those leading or supporting schools on their restorative journey. I can hardly wait to make use of the numerous practical ideas and resources that are provided with colleagues in the field. -- Belinda Hopkins, Director, Transforming Conflict, National Centre for Restorative Approaches in Education, UK Marg and Peta have done a huge favour to schools by distilling their years of training, research, reflection and leadership into this eminently practical and inspirational book. Wherever you are on your restorative school journey, this book will help. -- from the foreword by Graham Robb, a former secondary school headteacher who works in education and youth justice. He is Chair of the Restorative Justice Council in the UK We know children need caring relationships, healthy communities and a way to fix their mistakes, but how do we get everyone in the school community building relationships and community, and offering help, all at the same time? Blood and Thorsborne have gathered the research on implementation, molded it into useful insights and provided practical direction in this clear and helpful book -- a book every school administrator should read. To be committed to school change, one has to first understand change. Using the insights of change theorists and their own pioneering experiences, Marg and Peta provide that essential understanding. -- Nancy Riestenberg, School Climate Specialist, Minnesota Department of Education, USA Teaching young people and staff (and indeed parents/carers) to forgive each other and resolve problems is one of the most important jobs a school can do. Emotional intelligence is not an old-fashioned idea -- it is essential for well-being, and we need to make our students resilient and help them form healthy relationships. This book is a practical guide to changing the ethos or climate of a school and getting people to think about and change their behaviour. It gets us away from blame and negative attitudes, showing us a positive way forward. I can recommend this book to head teachers, teachers and all staff who support young people and who are interested in improving their own practice. This book will help them in that quest. I would also recommend this book to any parents/carers who are finding parenting difficult to manage. -- Kenny Frederick, Principal, George Green's School, London, UK

Review

This book is an inspiration. It is the natural successor to the first generation of books that set the scene by explaining what restorative practice looks like in a school setting. The book addresses the challenge many educators face after the initial excitement of their first restorative skills training course -- how to spread the insights and the practice across their school community? Drawing on their wealth of experience, Marg Thorsborne and Peta Blood explain what the pitfalls are likely to be, and how to overcome them. They bring insights from the field of change management which are invaluable, and they offer case studies from schools all over the world to give weight to their message.

I have no doubt that this book will become the core text for all those leading or supporting schools on their restorative journey. I can hardly wait to make use of the numerous practical ideas and resources that are provided with colleagues in the field.

(Belinda Hopkins, Director, Transforming Conflict, National Centre for Restorative Approaches in Education, UK)

Marg and Peta have done a huge favour to schools by distilling their years of training, research, reflection and leadership into this eminently practical and inspirational book. Wherever you are on your restorative school journey, this book will help. (from the foreword by Graham Robb, a former secondary school headteacher who works in education and youth justice. He is Chair of the Restorative Justice Council in the UK)

We know children need caring relationships, healthy communities and a way to fix their mistakes, but how do we get everyone in the school community building relationships and community, and offering help, all at the same time? Blood and Thorsborne have gathered the research on implementation, molded it into useful insights and provided practical direction in this clear and helpful book -- a book every school administrator should read. To be committed to school change, one has to first understand change. Using the insights of change theorists and their own pioneering experiences, Marg and Peta provide that essential understanding. (Nancy Riestenberg, School Climate Specialist, Minnesota Department of Education, USA)

Teaching young people and staff (and indeed parents/carers) to forgive each other and resolve problems is one of the most important jobs a school can do. Emotional intelligence is not an old-fashioned idea -- it is essential for well-being, and we need to make our students resilient and help them form healthy relationships. This book is a practical guide to changing the ethos or climate of a school and getting people to think about and change their behaviour. It gets us away from blame and negative attitudes, showing us a positive way forward. I can recommend this book to head teachers, teachers and all staff who support young people and who are interested in improving their own practice. This book will help them in that quest. I would also recommend this book to any parents/carers who are finding parenting difficult to manage. (Kenny Frederick, Principal, George Green's School, London, UK)

About the Author

Margaret Thorsborne is the Managing Director of Transformative Justice Australia (Queensland) and Thorsborne and Associates in London, UK, a company committed to improving the way people relate to each other in the workplace, schools and other communities. She lives on the Sunshine Coast in Australia.

Peta Blood is the Managing Director of Circle Speak, a company committed to making a difference in workplaces, communities and schools. She lives in Sydney Australia. Both authors have a long history in the implementation of restorative practice in schools, both as pioneers, trainers, practitioners and authors.

Together they co-founded Restorative Practices International (RPI), the world's first international membership organization for restorative practitioners.

Users Review

From reader reviews:

Gregory Proctor:

The book Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities can give more knowledge and information about everything you want. So just why must we leave a good thing like a book Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities? Wide variety you have a different opinion about publication. But one aim in which book can give many data for us. It is absolutely suitable. Right now, try to closer using your book. Knowledge or information that you take for that, you are able to give for each other; you could share all of these. Book Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities has simple shape nevertheless, you know: it has great and big function for you. You can appearance the enormous world by open and read a publication. So it is very wonderful.

Katrina Roberts:

Information is provisions for individuals to get better life, information these days can get by anyone with everywhere. The information can be a expertise or any news even an issue. What people must be consider while those information which is inside former life are difficult to be find than now could be taking seriously which one is appropriate to believe or which one the resource are convinced. If you get the unstable resource then you get it as your main information you will have huge disadvantage for you. All of those possibilities will not happen throughout you if you take Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities as the daily resource information.

James Jones:

Precisely why? Because this Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities is an unordinary book that the inside of the guide waiting for you to snap this but latter it will surprise you with the secret this inside. Reading this book adjacent to it was fantastic author who all write the book in such awesome way makes the content within easier to understand, entertaining technique but still convey the meaning completely. So , it is good for you because of not hesitating having this any longer or you going to regret it. This book will give you a lot of benefits than the other book have such as help improving your proficiency and your critical thinking approach. So , still want to delay having that book? If I ended up you I will go to the book store hurriedly.

Jennifer Williams:

Your reading 6th sense will not betray anyone, why because this Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities reserve written by well-known writer we are excited for well how to make book which can be understand by anyone who have read the book. Written within good manner for you, leaking every ideas and creating skill only for eliminate your own personal hunger then you still skepticism Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities as good book but not only by the cover but also from the content. This is one publication that can break don't evaluate book by its include, so do you still needing one more sixth sense to pick that!? Oh come on your reading through sixth sense already said so why you have to listening to another sixth sense.

Download and Read Online Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities
By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood #GB3HTNQIWZO

Read Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood for online ebook

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood Free PDF d0wnl0ad, audio books, books to read, good books to read, cheap books, good books, online books, books online, book reviews epub, read books online, books to read online, online library, greatbooks to read, PDF best books to read, top books to read Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood books to read online.

Online Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood ebook PDF download

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood Doc

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood Mobipocket

Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood EPub

GB3HTNQIWZO: Implementing Restorative Practice in Schools: A Practical Guide to Transforming School Communities By Margaret Thorsborne, Peta Blood